

Autumnal Elegies: The Complete Poetry Of Georg Trakl

Delving into the Poetic Realm of Georg Trakl

Georg Trakl, an Austrian poet and writer of the early 20th century, crafted a body of work that left an indelible mark on the literary landscape. His poetry, characterized by its haunting imagery, introspective nature, and exploration of profound themes, has captivated readers for generations. In the comprehensive collection 'Autumnal Elegies: The Complete Poetry of Georg Trakl,' readers are invited to embark on a journey through the very essence of Trakl's poetic genius.

A Symphony of Melancholy and Beauty

Trakl's poetry is often described as a symphony of melancholy and beauty. His verses are steeped in an atmosphere of longing, loss, and despair, yet they also shimmer with moments of exquisite beauty. Through his words, Trakl captures the ephemeral nature of human existence, the fragility of love, and the inevitability of death.

Melancholy

The blue soul has mutely closed.

In the open window the brown forest sinks,

The stillness of dark animals: in the valley

The mill grinds, by the footbridge clouds rest outpoured,

The golden strangers. A procession of steeds

Gallops red in the village, The garden brown and cold.

The aster freezes, so delicately painted on the fence

The sunflower's gold almost flown away

The stumpets' voices: dew is poured out

On the hard grass and stars white and cold.

See death painted in the dear shadow,

Every countenance full of tears and closed.
