The Seattle Sockeyes are back! And they're ready to take on the ice in their brand new home, Climate Pledge Arena.

After years of anticipation, the Sockeyes finally made their NHL debut in October 2021. And they've been making a splash ever since.

The team is led by a young core of players, including captain Mark Giordano, center Matty Beniers, and winger Andre Burakovsky. And they're coached by Dave Hakstol, a veteran coach with a track record of success.

The Sockeyes play their home games at Climate Pledge Arena, a state-of-the-art facility that is one of the most sustainable arenas in the world.

The arena is powered by 100% renewable energy, and it features a number of sustainable design elements, such as a rainwater harvesting system and a green roof.

The Sockeyes are committed to being a sustainable organization, and they're proud to call Climate Pledge Arena their home.

The Sockeyes are off to a great start in their first season, and they're looking to make a deep playoff run.

With a talented team, a new arena, and a commitment to sustainability, the Sockeyes are poised for success in Seattle.
